Alusia is a gorgeous Isabella White Husky puppy with beautiful brown eyes that complement her creamy coloring. She is extremely friendly with a tail that is constantly in motion.

She likes people and will follow her humans around the house to be in their company. She would do wonderfully with a house full of children, yet appears to be perfectly at home with adults. Alusia is definitely a lover, always ready to lick your face and if you don't bend over enough to let her get to your face, she will start licking your ankles and feet.

Alusia plays very well with other dogs at the dog park near her foster home. While she is curious about the two foster cats, she has shown no aggressive tendencies toward them.

When someone approaches the house, Alusia will alert the family (not at all typical of Huskies) but is very mannerly when people visit. She is crate trained and definitely a "den" dog, liking a cover over her crate at night. We speculate that Alusia lived outdoors in her prior life and, therefore, is a work in progress when it comes to housetraining.

Alusia also likes to play with toys – it seems she may not have had toys before. When she is not carrying around her "babies", she can be found with her chew bone. She also likes riding in the car or, even better if you have one, a golf cart.

She is spayed, up to date on shots, microchipped and learning her housetraining. She's a quick learner and, we are sure, will make a splendid member of any family.

Youngsters like this do not come around very often and usually do not remain available very long so take the initiative and fill out an adoption application at the upper left side of this page, today!
