What a sweet, lovable girl. Nala is a laid back, affectionate young adult that wants nothing more to do than be close to her humans and cuddle.

She is happy and energetic, loving her bones and toys, car rides, walks and going to the dog park where she gets along with all the other dogs, both male and female. Nala tolerates small dogs but is an unknown with cats and other small animals, so we advise caution in those situations.

Nala is also good with older children but is wary of younger ones. We feel she would be best served in a household with no youngsters. She is a kisser, a face licker and is very content to have her belly rubbed or to snuggle up with her humans on the couch or bed. Even though Nala is crate trained, she is happiest when close to her humans and since she is not destructive why would you want to use the crate when you could have this beautiful girl nestled up next to you?

Nala has a congenital defect passed on by one of her parents affecting both her rear legs. They are slightly bowed, which forces her to run with a squatted position in the rear. It is not painful and has no effect on her movement or when playing with other dogs.

Nala is spayed, housebroken, microchipped and up-to-date on all her shots.

This standout beauty will draw oohs and aahs when you take her out in public. Why not fill out an adoption application at the upper left of this page and do some showing off?
