Precious was turned in to a shelter along with a mate and what we think were two adult offspring. The adult male was adopted right away at the shelter and SHRF took Precious and the two younger ones into our rescue.

Precious has beautiful almond shaped brown eyes that will just melt your heart. Those eyes, along with a bushy tail, make her look quite appealing. She has a noticeable piece of her right ear missing which, without any knowledge to indicate otherwise, we choose to attribute to her bravery in fighting off a marauding black bear that was threatening her former family.

She is quiet, calm and very friendly with everyone she meets. She seems to be quite a confident dog, taking her time getting to know her foster brother and her new surroundings and doing so on her terms. Although Precious gets along well with other dogs she does not seem to be cat friendly.

This sweet girl is housebroken; politely letting you know when it's time to go outside if you are not paying attention. She responds well to simple commands and enjoys walking on the leash. Precious is quite the talker, displaying an extensive range of wonderful Husky howls and yowls. The longer she has been at her foster home the chattier she has become.

Precious enjoys riding in the car, settling down right away and enjoying the view. She is crate-trained, sleeping quietly all night long and is very happy to just hang out there on her comfy bed with the door open during the day rather than lying on the tile floor. Being non-destructive, like most Huskies, she will probably never need a crate.

Precious is healthy, spayed, up-to-date on shots, microchipped, and Heartworm negative. Protect yourself from rampaging bears; fill out an adoption application on our web site, www.siberrescue.com, today.
